INTRODUCTION

At the meeting of the Agricultural Libraries Section of the American Library Association in July, 1925, it was proposed that the Library of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, cooperating with the agricultural librarians of the country, issue a series of source books of state agricultural statistics to meet the increasing demand for indexes in this field. In accordance with this suggestion the library of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics has compiled this index to the sources of the state official agricultural statistics of Alabama.

SCOPE

State official sources of agricultural statistics have been indexed insofar as these sources were available in the Library of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. That is to say the publications in this library issued by official agencies of the state of Alabama, such as the Department of Agriculture and Industries, the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and the Agricultural Experiment Station were examined. In addition to such official sources the publications of the following associations have been examined: Alabama Livestock Association, Alabama State Agricultural Society, Alabama State Horticultural Society. For a complete list of the publications examined see "Sources Consulted" p.36-92. Those which contain agricultural statistics in tabular form have been indexed. Publications issued by private and commercial agencies have not been examined. Federal official statistics are not included as it was realized that their inclusion in the index for each state would entail an enormous repetition of work. It was, therefore, decided to issue a separate index to the federal sources of statistics of all the states. This work will be undertaken as soon as possible as no state compilation will be complete without it.

An examination of the "Sources Consulted" shows that our files of the state official publications are not complete. Many attempts to complete these files have been made without success; we should be glad to receive any of those which the list indicates as missing. The use of this index will reveal the fact that there are periods of years to which there is no reference and that there are very few references to such items as "unloads", "shipments", and "stocks on hand." Those were included whenever found. The incompleteness of the data may serve as an indication of the need for the publication of additional statistics in certain fields.

OMISSIONS

References to undated tables have been omitted unless the exact or probable date could be ascertained from the text. In cases of doubt, interrogation marks follow the dates assigned. Such undated tables as the ones in Ala. Dept. Agr. Bul. 27, p.380 and 384, giving value and tax on various kinds of livestock have been omitted. As the bulletin was published in 1908 it was at first assumed that the table covered 1907. A comparison with the Report of the State Auditor for that year failed to verify the assumption. The Auditor's reports from 1899/1900 to 1908/09 were examined but the corresponding table was not found. This reference to Bul. 27 was therefore omitted. Other similar omissions were made. References to the following kinds of statistics have also been omitted:

1. Forecasts, preliminary estimates, and condition reports.
These appear from month to month in the Alabama Markets Journal. In view of the fact that references are given to final estimates it seemed unnecessary to list the references to the preliminary estimates.
2. Statistics of experimental plots.
3. Statistics of mills, spindles and looms, and manufactured cotton.
4. Forestry statistics, except those indicating amount of land in forests.
5. Climatological data.
6. References to statistics for the United States as a whole, unless the figures for the state are given in comparison.
7. Statistics of inspection service.
8. Statistics of fertilizer analysis.

NOTES

A brief description of each publication analyzed is given in the list of "Sources Consulted." See page 86-92.

Publications which quote tables from the U. S. Census reports usually quote them as of the Census year, although the figures are in many cases for the preceding year. For instance, the 1920 Census gives production figures for 1919. The Census table should be examined to determine which year is covered in the report. When figures are quoted for Census years such as 1850, 1860, 1870, 1880, etc., they are probably taken from the U. S. Census tables. When credit has been given in the table it has been indicated after the citation thus: (U. S. Census)

"District", "region", and "section", as used in Alabama, refer to groups of counties. The publications should be consulted to determine which counties are included under each of these headings.

Dates given with a hyphen (1917-1922) indicate that annual figures are given for that period, both dates inclusive, unless otherwise stated, as 1920-1924 (5 year average)

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

We acknowledge with thanks the help received from the economists at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute to whom the manuscript of this index was sent for criticism and suggestions.

In July 1921 the crop report was printed separately with title, Alabama crop report.
In July 1923 and July 1924 the Alabama acreage report was issued as a supplement to the journal.
Since July 1919 this periodical has been the official organ of the Alabama Cooperative Crop Reporting Service, and as such is issued in cooperation with the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. In addition to the monthly and annual crop reports, it contains charts and tables showing the extent and distribution of Alabama's agriculture and frequent articles of statistical interest by the Agricultural Statistician, F. W. Gist, such as Farm Needs and Farm Production in the May, 1924, issue, or Cost of Growing Peanuts in 1920 in the April, 1921, issue. Beginning with 1919 the statistics of acreage, production, and value of the principal crops and the number and value of the principal domestic animals are given annually. The monthly reports contain condition reports and preliminary estimates.

Al 1F [monthly] Auburn, Ala. v.1, no.1, Dec. 1, 1925.

Issued by the Cooperative Extension Work in Agriculture and home economics, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, State Board of Agriculture and United States Department of Agriculture cooperating.

This issue of Farm Economics states that "it is to be published regularly, and will contain information relating to farm prices, the crop and livestock situation, and facts about Alabama agriculture." It contains average prices paid to farmers in Alabama, Sept., Oct., Nov. 1925, Nov., 1924 and monthly average 1910-1914 (5 yr. average) with the index number for each commodity. Forty-seven items are listed including crops, livestock and poultry products. These figures were supplied by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. For these same dates, the following index numbers are given: Weighted average index numbers of prices of Alabama farm products; Index numbers of wholesale prices in U. S., all commodities; Index numbers of wholesale prices in U. S., non-agricultural; Purchasing power of Alabama farm products in terms of non-agricultural commodities.

In addition to the tables there are brief comments on the farm price situation in Alabama with notes on important increases and decreases in the prices of certain farm products.

v.6 U. S. Census office. 10th census, 1880 [Census reports] v.6. Washington, 1884.

Page 3-173 of volume 6 is Report on cotton production of the state of Alabama, with a discussion of the general agricultural features of the state, by Eugene Allen Smith.

As indicated by the title this article contains not only statistics of cotton but also of other agricultural products. Although this volume is a federal publication, an exception was made and it was analyzed at this time because many of the statistics have been quoted in some of the Alabama state publications listed above. As this section is devoted to Alabama exclusively it was possible to make this exception without duplication of work.
